Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be obtained by contacting Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working pressbox. Children, spouses and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the U.S. Basketball Writers Association.

Western Union facilities are not available in Carmichael Auditorium. However, the Carolina Sports Information Office does provide several phones for writers to use in moving their copy. The University also has one telecopier which is available on a first-come, first-serve basis after each game. It is strongly suggested, however, that whenever possible, writers bring their own telecopiers. This will allow all copy to be moved more quickly and will alleviate any deadline problems.

Complete boxscores are provided at halftime and at the end of each game. A play-by-play is also available.

Carolina's Basketball Radio Network is one of the largest and best in the entire nation. Tar Heel games can be heard from Canada to the Bahamas. The network is run by Village Companies of Chapel Hill, owner of radio station WCHL. Woody Durham, sports director at WPTF-TV in Durham, does the play-by-play with WCHL's Jim Heavner and Bob Holliday providing color commentary.

The Dean Smith Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. Durham serves as emcee for this program.

At least six Tar Heel games will nationally televised this year with at least 10 others on regional TV.

Carolina Basketball Prospectus

North Carolina, seeking an unprecedented fifth consecutive first-place finish in the Atlantic Coast Conference race, could again have one of the best teams in college basketball in 1979-80.

Carolina returns three regular starters off last year's great team which won 23 of 29 games, swept the ACC championship and finished third in the final UPI coaches' poll.

Heading the list of returning players for the Tar Heels is All-America forward Mike O'Koren, a 6-8 senior from Jersey City, N.J., who ranks as one of the most complete players in the game. He was a first-team All-America last year on squads chosen by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association, Basketball Weekly, The Sporting News and Converse.

However, O'Koren is not the whole show for Carolina. Also back are two other talented regulars—6-6 junior forward Al Wood and 6-2 senior guard Dave Colescott. In addition, the Tar Heels also return three players who split time at center last year—6-9 junior Pete Budko, 6-11 center Jeff Wolf and 6-10 senior Rich Yonakor.

Other returnees are 6-2 sophomore guard Jimmy Black, 6-8 sophomore forward Chris Brust, 6-6 junior forward Eric Kenny, 6-3 junior guard Mike Pepper and 6-6 senior guard John Virgil.

However, Carolina will have a difficult time replacing the three players it lost to graduation—starting guard Dudley Bradley, part-time starter Ged Doughton and reserve Randy Wiel.

Bradley, a first-round NBA draft selection, may have been the finest defensive player in college basketball. His defense, in fact, often overshadowed his offensive skills. He was the most valuable player in the ACC Tournament. He, Doughton and Wiel played on teams which finished first in the conference race four straight years. Only the 1963-66 Duke teams have ever matched that streak. Carolina, of course, could better it this year. However, Coach Dean Smith says that will be very difficult.

"We will again have a good team," says Smith. "But, the conference will be very balanced and all the games should be close. This team faces a big challenge in trying to finish on top for the fifth straight time.

"In addition, we play another formidable outside schedule which will make it most difficult for us to improve on last year's 23-6 record. Last season we weren't rated very highly and were able to surprise some people. We won't have that advantage this year."

Smith says the loss of Bradley, Doughton and Wiel will also hurt his team.

"We will miss Dudley more than most people realize," he says. "He was great defensively, but he also helped spark our offense. He gave us a lot of easy shots with his steals.

"We will certainly miss Ged's sound play at guard and only those really close to our team will know how much Randy meant in terms of spirit and leadership."

Still, Smith is optimistic about the upcoming season.This will basically be a senior team, one with a lot of experience. It is a team capable of winning another ACC title and again contending for national honors.

In O'Koren and Wood, Carolina has an excellent pair of forwards. Smith has called O'Koren the "best all-around forward in the country."

"I thought Mike had his best year by far at Carolina last season," says Smith. "His scoring average was down a little from the previous year, but defenses were keying on him. He was content to set up his teammates with passes as evidenced by his increased assists. His defense also improved throughout the year."

Wood, a first-team All-ACC selection, had an outstanding sophomore season. He led Carolina in scoring (17.8) and topped the ACC in field goal percentage (57.2). If he continues to improve on defense as he did last year and increases his assist total, he could join O'Koren as a top All-America candidate.

The center spot is wide open. Budko is a good defender and shot blocker, Yonakor is a fine offensive threat and Wolf rebounds well. Smith would like to settle on one starter by the first game. However, the other big men will still see considerable playing time at either big forward or center.

Depth in the frontcourt will be added by Brust, Kenny and 6-8 freshman James Worthy.

The point guard position appears to be in good hands wth Colescott and Black. After recovering from a mid-season eye injury, Colescott played the best basketball of his career down the stretch. Black did a good job in a backup role. Additional depth could come from 6-1 freshman Jim Braddock.

Virgil will open fall practice in Bradley's old spot. A fine scorer in the past, Virgil has made good strides defensively. However, he still needs to improve his ballhandling. Pepper, Black and Braddock are also possibilities there.

Carolina will have some flexibility in its lineup because both O'Koren and Worthy are capable of playing different positions.

Smith says Carolina's number one goal will be to be a better rebounding team this year.

"We would also like to cut down our loss of ball on the fastbreak," he says. "We hurt ourselves at times last season with mistakes there. However, I think our break will be much better.

"It will be hard to be as good defensively as we were last year. And, of course, our defense really helped our offense by getting us some easy baskets with steals."

Offensively, Carolina will be trying to again rank among the natinal leaders in field goal percentage. The Tar Heels shot 53.3 per cent last year. Incredibly, that was the ninth consecutive year Carolina has shot at least 52.0 percent from the floor, a streak unmatched in history.

"Because of our difficult schedule, many of our games are not going to be decided until the final minutes," says Smith. "That should make this a most interesting and exciting season."

Ferebee Taylor / Chancellor

Ferebee Taylor is beginning his final basketball season as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Taylor, who suffered a heart attack last summer, submitted his resignation in August on advice from his doctors. The resignation is effective January 31, 1980 or as soon thereafter as a successor is chosen. Taylor plans to take up duties as a faculty member in the University's School of Law next fall.

"It's unfortunate that Chancellor Taylor's health has forced him to resign," says Carolina Coach Dean Smith. "He has been a great servant to the University and the state of North Carolina.

"He has especially been a good friend of intercollegiate athletics. He occasionally visits our practices and rarely ever misses a game."

The Chancellor's strong interest in athletics at Carolina is natural. It stems not merely from the fact that the Tar Heel athletic program is one of the most successful in the nation. It goes beyond that.

Carolina's national reputation in teaching and research is matched only by the University community's avid interest in athletics. Kenan professors interrupt their classes to talk about that week's football or basketball game. A great number of the 21,000 students at the University participate in the intercollegiate or the extensive intramural program. At Carolina, academics and athletics go hand-in-hand in a manner few other universities can emulate. Chancellor Taylor has been keenly aware of that role.

"We will always strive for excellence in our Athletic Department as we do in all other departments," the Chancellor has said.

He feels the Athletic Department is an important part of the total University and expresses a hope that all students will make use of what it offers, either as participants or spectators.

Now in his eighth year as chancellor, Taylor assumed the position on February 1, 1972, succeeding J. Carlyle Sitterson who had served in the post for six years.

Immediately prior to being named chancellor, Taylor served for two years as vice president for administration for the Consolidated University of North Carolina system. He was a unanimous choice of the Board of Trustees to become the new chancellor of the Chapel Hill campus.

A native of Oxford, N.C., Chancellor Taylor is a graduate of Carolina, receiving his A.B. degree in American history in 1942. He was the first Herbert Worth Jackson Scholar at Carolina and served as the president of Phi Beta Kappa, making straight A's for three years.

As an undergraduate, he was also president of the University Club, speaker for the Student Legislature and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

The Chancellor served as a Navy midshipman in World War II and achieved the rank of lieutenant. He served aboard destroyers in both the Atlantic and the Pacific and was awarded the Bronze Star and two commendations.

After being released from active duty, he entered Harvard Law School and received his LL.B. degree Cum Laude in 1949. While at Harvard, he was the winner of Ames Competition in moot court activities.

Selected as a Rhodes Scholar, the Chancellor entered Balliol College at Oxford University, England, following his studies at Harvard. He received a B.A. in philosophy, politics and economics from Oxford in 1951 and his M.A. in 1955.

Admitted to the North Carolina bar in 1949 and to the New York bar in 1953, Taylor was associated with the firm of Arthur, Dry and and Dole in New York City from 1951 to 1958. In 1958, he became a partner in the firm of Arthur, Dry, Kalish, Taylor and Wood.

He returned to Carolina in the spring of 1968 as a visiting professor of corporate law in the UNC Law School. On July 1, 1970, he assumed his duties with the Consolidated University's General Administration in Chapel Hill. In that capacity, he served as a legal advisor and acted as a liaison between the Board of Governors and its committees.

Since assuming the duties as chancellor, Taylor has placed special emphasis on the public service aspect of the University. Many short courses, workshops and special projects have been organized, serving the entire state of North Carolina and its people, as well as the students and residents of the university community.

Among Taylor's most ambitious undertakings has been The Carolina Challenge. Working closely with alumni and friends of the University, he kicked off The Carolina Challenge in 1977 to raise $67 million in endowment funds.

Taylor is married to the former Louise C. Ellington, also of Oxford, and they have three daughters—Louise, Sarah and Martha.

Bill Cobey / Athletic Director

The director of athletics at the Univeristy of North Carolina is Bill Cobey, one of the most respected young administrators in collegiate sports.

Cobey is beginning his fourth full year as Tar Heel athletic director. He assumed the position in January of 1976 after Homer Rice resigned to become athletic director and head football coach at Rice University.

The man who heads Carolina's 26-sport athletic program is a regular spectator at most Tar Heel sports events. It makes no difference whether the game is football, field hockey or soccer; if the Tar Heels are playing, Cobey is usually on the scene.

The fact he is a fan of all Carolina teams is certainly one of the big reasons his selection as athletic director was hailed by all members of the Tar Heel Athletic Department.

It was only after consulting with over 40 people connected with the Carolina athletic program that Chancellor Ferebee Taylor appointed Cobey to head the department.

"There was a clear consensus that Bill Cobey would make an outstanding director of athletics," says the Chancellor. "That consensus has certainly proven correct. He has done a great job of directing our athletic program."

Cobey has emphasized a balanced athletic program with strong teams in all sports. In each of his three years as athletic director, Carolina has won the Carmichael Cup, symbolic of overall excellence in athletics in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Before taking the Carolina job, Cobey had been interviewed by other schools for high athletic positions. He says it has long been an ambition of his to be an athletic director at a major university.

Cobey's interest in sports came quite naturally. His father was Jim Tatum's assistant athletic director at the University of Maryland. When Tatum left College Park to become the head football coach at Carolina in 1956, Cobey's father was named his successor.

Even today Cobey gives his father and Tatum credit for what he has accomplished in athletics. He also says Rice was a tremendous influence on him.

Cobey believes in staying out of the spotlight while getting his job done.

"The attention should go to our athletes and coaches," he says. "Administrators don't need to get any fanfare.

"Our goal is to carry on the great tradition Carolina has had in intercollegiate athletics. We will always work toward maintaining a strong, overall program."

Cobey is only the fourth man in history to head the Carolina Athletic Department.

Bob Fetzer was Carolina's first athletic director, serving from 1922 until 1951. He was followed by Charles P. (Chuck) Erickson who held the post until his retirement in May, 1968. Rice succeeded Erickson the following January.

Cobey is presently in his 12th year with the University. He held four posts prior to becoming athletic director.

His initial position at Carolina was as academic counselor for Bill Dooley's 1968 football team. In that capacity, he advised players on their academic work, served as a counselor for personal problems and performed various administrative duties for Dooley. Cobey continued in that position until 1971, but also added the role of assistant athletic business manager in 1969.

In 1971 Cobey was elevated to assistant athletic director for operations. He was directly responsible for the running of Kenan Stadium and Carmichael Auditorium on the days of football and basketball games. He then served in the position of assistant athletic director for promotions and finance.

Cobey was graduated from Emory University in Atlanta in 1962 with a B.A. degree in chemistry. He was a Dean's List student there and served as president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

He then received an M.B.A. degree from the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania in 1964. After six months as an administrative assistant for Suburban Trust Company in Hyattsville, Md., he worked with Dow Chemical Company in Midland, Mich. for almost two years.

He then returned to school at the University of Pittsburgh and earned a master's degree in education in 1968. During his time at Pitt, he took part in a graduate teaching internship in physical education and was an assistant football coach in the West Mifflin Area school district.

A member of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, Cobey has been very active in community affairs since coming to Chapel Hill. A past president of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro YMCA, he played a key role in the drive to construct a new YMCA building here. He is also a former assistant campaign chairman and board member of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro United Fund.

In addition, he is a past member of the Board of Directors of the Chapel Hill Chapter of the American Field Service; a member of the Orange County Advisory Board for Girl Scouts; a member of the Chapel Hill Advisory Board for Home Savings and Loan Association; a member of the board of directors of Happenings, Inc.; 1979 chairman of the Chapel Hill District Sustaining Committee for Membership Enrollment for the Boy Scouts of America; and a member of the East Chapel Hill Rotary Club.

Cobey is married to the former Nancy Sullivan of College Park, Md. They have two children—Cathy, 13, and Billy, 7.

Tar Heel Tradition

Three national championships, four national players-of-the-year, a host of All-Americas and one of the best winning percentages in the history of the game.

Those are just some of the reasons the University of North Carolina has one of the greatest traditions in college basketball. There is little wonder that basketball is a very special sport on the Carolina campus.

Tar Heel teams have been making national headlines for years and are annually ranked among the elite of the college game.

Since the sport began here in 1911, Carolina has posted a record of 1,179 victories against only 463 losses. Fifty-nine of the school's 69 teams have had winning records.

Carolina is one of only a few schools which has won 1,000 games. Carolina ranks with Kentucky and St. John's as the three teams with the best won-loss percentage in history.

The Tar Heels are one of only six teams to capture both a National Collegiate Athletic Association championship and a National Invitation Tournament title. The Tar Heels won the NCAA crown in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record and then swept the NIT in 1971. Carolina also was voted national champion in 1924 with a 26-0 record.

Carolina has won the NCAA's Eastern Regional Tournament six times since 1946. No other school has won more than three.

Since the NCAA Tournament was first played, Carolina has been one of the most dominant teams in the game. In fact, nearly one-third of all NCAA semi-final appearances have been made by just eight teams—UCLA (12), Ohio State (8), Carolina (7), Kentucky (7), Kansas (6), Cincinnati (5), Indiana (4) and Oklahoma State (4).

Despite the University's long and storied basketball past, the sport has become even more popular here since Dean Smith became the head coach. During the last 13 years Carolina ranks with UCLA and Marquette as the winningest teams in America.

The Tar Heels have played in a national post-season tournament each of the last 13 years. The 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972, 1975, 1977 and 1979 teams won Atlantic Coast Conference championships and advanced into NCAA play. The Tar Heels won the Eastern Regionals in 1967, 1968, 1969, 1972 and 1977 and went on to the NCAA's final four. The 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974 teams went to the NIT in New York.

Thus, no freshman class since 1963 has missed a post-season tournament at Carolina.

In the last 13 years Carolina has won 320 games and lost just 80. That's roughly an average record of 25-6 a season, one of the most amazing marks in intercollegiate athletics.

Although the Tar Heels have gained a lot of notoriety for the four corners offense they use late in games, they actually rank as one of the nation's five highest-scoring teams in the last 13 seasons. Carolina runs one of the best fast breaks in college basketball. That's one of the reasons the Tar Heels have the best shooting percentage of any team in America in that same 13-year period.

Carolina has managed these feats against the toughest opposition in the nation. The Tar Heel schedule is annually ranked as one of the 10 toughest in the country. Making the schedule even more difficult is the fact the Tar Heels play so many games on the road.

While the non-conference schedule is always difficult, Carolina's keenest competition comes from the teams in its own league—the ACC. Teams in the conference besides Carolina are Clemson, Duke, Georgia Tech, Maryland, N.C. State, Virginia and Wake Forest. Amazingly, Carolina has not finished lower than second in the ACC standings in the past 13 years.

The Tar Heel fame in basketball has even spread abroad. The Tar Heels have twice competed in the International Christmas Tournament in Madrid, Spain during the last nine seasons. This year Carolina will play in an international tournament in London.

Tournament play is nothing new for Carolina, however. The Tar Heels have won 41 tournament championships in the sport's 69 years in Chapel Hill. The Tar Heels have competed in such tournaments as the Far West Classic in Portland, the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, The Holiday Festival in New York City and the Sugar Bowl Classic in New Orleans.

Carolina has had at least one player on each of the past four U.S. Olympic teams. Larry Brown starred on the 1964 team which won the Gold Medal in Tokyo. Charlie Scott was a member of the 1968 championship team at Mexico City. Then Bobby Jones played on the 1972 team in Munich.

In the 1976 Games at Montreal, Phil Ford, Walter Davis, Mitch Kupchak and Tommy LaGarde all played key roles in the U.S. sweep of the Gold Medal. Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith was the U.S. coach.

There have been dozens of All-Americas at Carolina. Twelve of them have played in the Dean Smith Era alone—Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik, Bill Chamberlain, Robert McAdoo, Bobby Jones, Mitch Kupchak, Tommy LaGarde, Phil Ford and Mike O'Koren.

In 1978 Ford became the fourth Tar Heel to be named National Player of the Year. The others were Jack Cobb in 1926, George Glamack in 1941 and Lennie Rosenbluth in 1957.

The crowds which turn out to see the Tar Heels play are proof of the sport's popularity in Chapel Hill. Every game is a sellout in beautiful Carmichael Auditorium. Students often sleep at the Auditorium the night before they are to pick up tickets just to be sure they get into the games. The pressbox is always filled to capacity at every home game.

Even the Tar Heel intrasquad games are sellouts. Most Tar Heel games are televised. Carolina is on national television every year and, in addition, many other games are televised across the Eastern Seaboard.

Everywhere the Tar Heels play they are a big hit. Just two years ago Carolina drew the largest college basketball crowd in Madison Square Garden history for a game with Rutgers.

It's obvious then that truly nothing could be finer than basketball at Carolina.

The most dominant collegiate sports teams in America in recent years have been the basketball teams from UCLA, North Carolina and Marquette and the football teams from Michigan, Oklahoma and Penn State.

In the last 13 years, UCLA has finished in at least one of the national wire service basketball polls' top ten each season. Marquette has been there 11 times and Carolina 10. As far as being in both polls' final top ten, UCLA is again the leader with 13. Carolina is second with eight.

The football leaders in top ten finishes are Michigan, Oklahoma and Penn State with 10 each. Michigan has finished in the top ten in both polls 10 times, followed by Alabama, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Oklahoma, Penn State and Southern California with eight each.

When one narrows these fields to the absolute elite—finishes in a wire service top four—the basketball leaders are still UCLA with 12 and Carolina with six. The football leaders are Ohio State with eight and Alabama, Oklahoma and USC with seven.

Here is a quick rundown of top ten and top four finishes in both football and basketball for the last 13 years:

Carolina Basketball — International Style

Carolina's Olympians

Larry Brown

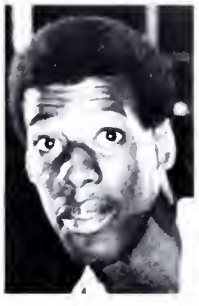
Walter Davis

Phil Ford

Bobby Jones

Mitch Kupchak

Tommy LaGarde



Charlie Scott

When Mike O'Koren helped spark the United States to the basketball Gold Medal at last summer's Pan American Games, it marked just another in a long line of Tar Heel successes on the international level.

In recent years Carolina players and teams have traveled everywhere from the Great Wall of China to Red Square in Moscow to the beaches of Waikiki.

However, Carolina's greatest impact on the international game probably came in the summer of 1976 at the Montreal Olympic Games. With four Tar Heels playing key roles, the U.S. captured the Gold Medal.

Mitch Kuphak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde and Phil Ford were all instrumental in the Americans' six-game Olympic sweep. So, of course, were Carolina Coach Dean Smith and his assistant, Bill Guthridge. Smith coached the U.S. team. His assistants were Guthridge and Georgetown Coach John Thompson.

Playing as a team and stressing defense, the Americans routed Italy in their first game. After edging a fired-up Puerto Rican team, the U.S. then whipped Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Canada in the semi-finals. After Yugoslavia had beaten the Soviet Union in the other semi-final, the Americans then defeated the Yugoslavs again for the Gold Medal.

Smith, who removed his name from consideration for the 1980 Olympic coaching job, will serve as chairman of the Olympic Selection Committee next summer.

Carolina's representation on the 1976 Olympic team was certainly nothing new. In fact, the Tar Heels have had players on the last four U.S. teams.

Larry Brown started this amazing streak in 1964 when he played on the winning U.S. team in Tokyo. Charlie Scott starred on the 1968 squad which swept the Olympic title in Mexico City. Bobby Jones was a member of the 1972 team at Munich.

There is a good chance this streak will continue next summer. O'Koren was a starting forward on the U.S. team which took part in the Gregarian Cup competition in Moscow in 1978 and then was co-captain of the Pan-Am team last summer. He would like to play in the Olympics and has to be a top contender for a spot on the team.

While the Olympics rank at the top of Carolina's international and overseas competition, there have been plenty of other highlights as well.

Carolina players have been prominent in the last three Pan American Games. In addition to O'Koren last summer, Robert McAdoo starred on the 1971 U.S. team and LaGarde played on the winning American team in 1975. LaGarde was also a member of the U.S.Continental Cup team which played games in the Soviet Union, Greece, Yugoslavia and other parts of Europe in 1975.

Dennis Wuycik played on the U.S. pre-Olympic team which toured Europe in 1971.

In the spring of 1973, a Russian national team toured America, playing a U.S. all-star team. Two of the biggest stars in that series were George Karl and Bobby Jones.

Later that summer Karl became one of the first Americans ever to go to Mainland China. He was a member of a U.S. basketball team which played there and again was one of the American heroes.

In the fall of 1973 Kupchak played on the U.S. team which won the basketball championship at the World University Games in Moscow.

Carolina took its entire team to Madrid, Spain in 1971 and played in the International Christmas Tournament there. The Tar Heels swept past teams from Brazil and Spain before facing Real Madrid, the European champion, in the finals. In a game televised across Europe, the Tar Heels gave one of their finest performances to win the championship.

Carolina returned to Madrid in 1974, but was edged by the veteran Real Madrid team in the finals. The Tar Heels did pull a stunning upset, however, beating the powerful Cuban national team on a last-second shot by Davis.

Another of Carolina's greatest efforts came in 1972. Although not actually leaving the country, the Tar Heels did fly from the mainland to win the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. With Karl, Kupchak and Jones leading the way, Carolina defeated Louisville for the championship there. Ford and O'Koren paced the Tar Heels to another Rainbow triumph in 1977.

Just last August Jimmy Black and James Worthy were chosen to play on the U.S. Junior World Cup team in Brazil. Because of a passport problem in the U.S.Olympic Committee offices, Black did not get to make the trip. However, Worthy starred for the victorious U.S. team.

Tar Heel players have also made big names for themselves playing professional basketball in Europe. Doug Moe had the most success, three times being selected European Player of the Year. Other Tar Heels who have played in Europe include Dave Chadwick, Kim Huband, Craig Corson, Donn Johnston, John O'Donnell, Donald Washington, Ed Stahl, Bill Chambers, Bruce Buckley, Tom Zaliagaris, Geff Crompton, and Randy Wiel. Washington, Chambers, Crompton and Wiel are still active.

Set to begin his second year as a starter at the point guard position... Being counted on to have a great senior year... Tremendous competitor... Has fine quickness and speed... Good defensive player... Handles the ball well... Does a good job of running the Carolina offense... Was super in the ACC Tournament last year, making the all-tournament team... Hit nine of 13 shots from the floor during the tournament and was all over the court on defense... Had one of his finest games in a victory at Virginia with 13 points, four assists and four steals... Scored a career-high 21 points in win at Cincinnati... However, coaches feel some of his best games were not necessarily those in which he scored a lot of points... Missed three games last year because of an injury suffered in the first minute of a game with Duke on Jan. 13... Was accidentally hit by Mike Gminski's hand in a scramble for a loose ball, resulting in a fractured eye socket... That injury bothered him for several games after he returned to action... Played some games with special goggles, but discarded them because they were not comfortable... Played very well down the stretch after recovering from that injury... Carolina's best free throw shooter last year (87.5 per cent)... Averaged 8.7 points per game, shooting 52.0 per cent from the field... Played behind Phil Ford his first two years here... Had a career-high five assists on two occasions as a sophomore... Played in just 18 games as a freshman after being sidelined early in the year with a broken foot... Came on strong at the end of that season, however, and did an excellent job in the ACC Tournament championship game after Ford had fouled out... Played on back-to-back state high school championship teams in Indiana... Coached at Marion High by Bill Green... As a senior, he was voted Mr. High School Basketball in the state of Indiana and was also named the outstanding student-athlete in the state... His father, who is now in private business, was a long-time high school coach and athletic director.

Dean Smith

Head Basketball Coach

The head basketball coach at the University of North Carolina is Dean Smith, national coach of the year in two of the past three seasons and a man with one of the greatest reputations in the history of the college game.

In 18 seasons at Carolina, Smith has an amazing record of 386 victories against only 127 losses. That's a percentage of .752, the seventh best mark in history of anyone who has coached at least 15 years. Of the six men ahead of him, only John Wooden and Adolph Rupp coached after 1960.

Under Smith, Carolina has reached the NCAA semi-finals five times in the last 13 years. Only UCLA has been to the Final Four more times in that period. In fact, the only coach in history who has made more Final Four appearances than Smith is Wooden, Rupp, like Smith, got there five times. No other active coach has been there more than twice.

In the last 13 years Carolina has won the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship nine times and never finished lower than second in the league standings. The Tar Heels have won seven ACC Tournament titles in that same stretch and have also captured five Eastern Regional titles. In fact, Carolina has won either the ACC regular-season or tournament championship 10 times in the past 13 seasons.

After Smith took Carolina to the NCAA championship game in 1977, he was named National Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches. Last year he was selected as the country's top coach by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and Basketball Weekly.

Perhaps Smith's most famous accomplishment came in 1976 when he guided the United States Basketball Team to a sweep of the Summer Olympic Games in Montreal. In only a few weeks he molded a college all-star team into a close-knit unit. Still the Americans faced the tremendous challenge of competing against international teams which had been playing together for years.

But, with Smith emphasizing a tough pressure defense and fast-breaking team play on offense, the United States regained the Gold Medal it had lost in the controversial 1972 Games.

Four of Smith's Tar Heels played key roles in the Olympic triumph—Mitch Kupchak, Walter Davis, Tommy LaGarde, and Phil Ford. In fact, Smith has had players on each of the past four Olympic teams. Larry Brown starred in the 1964 Games at Tokyo; Charlie Scott helped win the championship in Mexico City in 1968; and Bobby Jones played on the 1972 team at Munich.

Smith's Olympic victory was just another in a long line of his remarkable successes. His record in the last 13 years is 320-80, a percentage of .800. That gives his teams an average record of 25-6 in that period. Carolina has won at least 25 games eight times in the past 13 years. The Tar Heels won at least 22 in four of the other five seasons.

Carolina has been to a national post-season tournament for 13 consecutive years. The Tar Heels won the National Invitation Tournament in 1971.

How does Smith work all this magic? It's a combination of things. He has tremendous rapport with his players, he is a master teacher and his style of play gets amazing results.

Former Marquette Coach Al McGuire may have put it best when he said, "If anyone was ever born to be a college coach, it's Dean Smith. He's the Jack Armstrong type person.

"Besides myself, I'd pick Dean, John Wooden and Bobby Knight as the nation's top collegiate coaches."

Carolina teams under Smith are known for unselfish play, great teamwork and a tenacious man-to-man defense. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind, fast-breaking offense, they also have a disciplined attack and always rank among the national leaders in field goal percentage.

In a 10-year study released by the NCAA last season, Carolina ranked first in the nation in field goal accuracy and offensive efficiency, fifth in scoring and third in scoring margin.

That ranking of fifth in scoring is really no surprise. Although Smith is sometimes kidded about coaching "slowdowns" because of the four corners offense he uses late in some games, his teams annually rank among the scoring leaders.

Among Smith's many innovations are his run-and-jump defense, the mixing of pressure defenses, the point zone, team huddles at the foul line, the free lance passing game, the four corners offense and the scramble defense which was so effective with the Dudley-Bradley-led defenses of the late Seventies.

His defensive and offensive schemes are constantly studied by other coaches across the country and around the world. Many college, professional and foreign coaches visit the Tar Heel campus during the off-season to get advice from Smith. His high school coaching clinic is one of the most popular in the nation.

In fact, Smith's innovations have actually changed the course of the college game. As University of South Florida Coach Chip Connor once put it, "Dean Smith has had more impact on the game than anyone in the past 10 years."

Smith's success at Carolina has been shared by those around him. Two of his assistants, Kenny Rosemond and John Lotz, left Carolina to take head coaching jobs in the Southeastern Conference. Another former aide, Larry Brown, is the new head coach at UCLA. Smith's current assistants, Bill Guthridge and Eddie Fogler, have turned down head coaching jobs at major universities to remain at Carolina. Smith, himself, has been offered numerous other coaching jobs, both on the college and professional level.

That certainly should be no surprise. In the last 13 years alone, 22 of Smith's players have gone on to play professional basketball in this country and several others have played professionally in Europe. Two Carolina players, Davis and Ford, have swept Rookie-of-the-Year honors in the National Basketball Association for the last two years.

No active coach has had as many All-Americas as Smith. Ford was the National Player of the Year two seasons ago.

A native of Emporia, Kansas, Smith attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball there. He was a member of the Jayhawk basketball teams which won the national championship in 1952 and finished second in 1953.

Smith was assistant basketball coach and baseball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heel coach. When McGuire left to join the professional ranks in 1961, Smith was named the head coach.

Carolina has swept the unbelievable total of 25 tournament championships since Smith took the head coaching job. The Tar Heels captured five tournaments during the 1971-72 season alone.

Smith is a great good-will ambassador for the University. He is called upon to lecture at basketball clinics all over the world. He has been a member of the national rules committee. He makes numerous speeches each year. His basketball camp for youngsters is so popular that he never advertises it. In fact, it is always filled by early March.

In his spare time, Smith enjoys golf, tennis, music and reading books on a variety of subjects. He has a special interest in theology.

Smith has four children—Mrs. Sharon Kepley and Sandy, both Carolina graduates; Scott, a current student at the University; and a baby daughter, Kristen Caroline.

Bill Guthridge

One of the best coaches in college basketball is Bill Guthridge, Dean Smith's chief assistant at the University of North Carolina.

Guthridge is beginning his 13th year on the Tar Heel staff. He has helped guide Carolina to a post-season tournament in each of his previous 12 seasons here. In that 12-year period, Carolina has been either first or second in the Atlantic Coast Conference race each season, has won either the ACC regular-season or tournament title nine times and captured the 1971 National Invitation Tournament.

Bill has a thorough knowledge of all aspects of his profession—teaching, organizing, motivating and recruiting. He works closely with Smith in all phases of the Carolina program.

Guthridge's reputation is so outstanding that his name is usually mentioned every time there is a major college coaching vacancy. He has turned down several head coaching jobs and has had his name withdrawn from consideration for others.

"Bill is one of the top coaches in America, and that includes head coaches as well as assistants," says Smith. "His record as an assistant here and at Kansas State has been tremendous. He has made great contributions to both programs."

Guthridge was also a key factor in the United States' 1976 basketball triumph in the Summer Olympic Games. He served as Smith's assistant on that coaching staff and also scouted the Americans' opponents.

In addition to his work with the varsity, Guthridge also coached the Tar Heel freshman and junior varsity teams in his first six years here. He had a 72-25 record and won the Big Four championship four times.

Smith gives him much of the credit for developing the players who have kept Carolina among the top basketball powers in the nation.

Guthridge has worked a great deal with both Carolina's offensive and defensive schemes. He is currently the Tar Heel shooting instructor. It is no coincidence that Carolina annually shoots better than 50 per cent from the field. In fact, the Tar Heels have the best shooting percentage of any team in America over the last dozen years.

A native of Parsons, Kan., Guthridge played his high school basketball for Harold Johnson, one of two brothers who were innovators of the zone press in the 1930's.

Bill went on to play collegiately at Kansas State in the years the Wildcats reigned as Big Eight champions—1958, 1959 and 1960. Based on his leadership, academic record and athletic accomplishments, he was chosen as one of the University's 13 most outstanding all-around seniors.

Following graduation, Guthridge coached for two years at Scott City (Kan.) High before returning to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter. During his time on the KSU staff, the Wildcats posted a 93-43 record, swept two Big Eight titles and advanced to the NCAA Final Four twice. Bill's first season in Chapel Hill was 1967-68.

Guthridge has thus been to the NCAA Final Four a total of seven times—six as a coach and once as a player.

Besides working with Smith and Winter, two of the great names in coaching, Guthridge has also coached in Puerto Rico summer leagues for two years. He was once named coach-of-the-year and was invited to coach the Puerto Rican team in the 1968 Olympics. However, he had to turn that offer down because of his work at Carolina. He was recently contacted about coaching the Puerto Rican Olympic team next summer.

"Not only is Bill an astute basketball technician," says Smith, "but he is also an excellent teacher. He is highly respected by the players who have been through our program. He is sincere in his recruiting and I think this has made him a favorite of prospective student-athletes and their families. He is a man of great integrity."

Unlike many coaches, Guthridge says he actually enjoys recruiting.

"Some people say recruiting is undesirable," says Guthridge. "But my experiences have been very enjoyable. I think that has a lot to do with the type of young man which our university attracts."

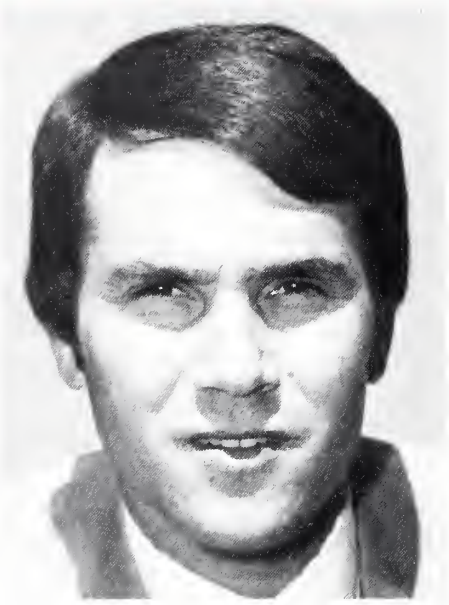
Guthridge, who got his B.S. in mathematics, has a master's degree in education and has taken courses at Carolina toward his PH.D.

While basketball is his game, Bill is also a close follower of other sports. When he can find some spare time, he likes to play golf.

Guthridge has an excellent sense of humor and is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the Carolina athletic department.

Bill and his wife, Leesie, have two sons, Jamie and Stuart, and a daughter, Megan.

Eddie Fogler



Eddie Fogler, who has been involved in some of Carolina's greatest basketball seasons, is beginning his seventh year as a Tar Heel assistant.

As a player, Fogler helped guide Carolina to two Atlantic Coast Conference championships. In his six years as a coach here, the Tar Heels have won three more ACC Tournament titles and have finished first in the regular-season race four times.

Fogler knows the game very well and is considered an excellent teacher. He is also a top-flight recruiter and travels extensively for Coach Dean Smith.

"Eddie has unusual sincerity in recruiting and he is an excellent recruiter because of that," says Smith. "He has a genuine love for the University and, as a result, he can present it well."

Fogler has a solid background in fundamental basketball. He learned the game as a youngster in New York City against excellent competition. In fact, he is one of the few players every to make the all-city team twice.

Eddie then played guard on Tar Heel teams from 1967 to 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams won ACC championships and advanced to the NCAA Final Four. In his senior season the Tar Heels played in the National Invitation Tournament.

A playmaking guard, Fogler is considered one of the best ballhandlers and finest passers in Carolina history. He still ranks as one of the Tar Heels' all-time leaders in assists.

After receiving a bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1970, Fogler spent a year teaching and coaching at DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C. He was in charge of the DeMatha junior varsity.

He returned to Chapel Hill in the fall of 1971 as a graduate assistant. Fogler worked that season with the Carolina freshmen and also helped with scouting and recruiting. He earned his master's degree in 1972.

Fogler became a full-time staff member in 1973 and has made valuable contributions to the Tar Heel program.

"Eddie brings a bright mind to the coaching profession," says Smith. "He really was like an assistant coach on the floor in his playing days here when he quarterbacked some of our championship teams. He's a hard worker and has enthusiasm for the sport.

"If Bill Guthridge had taken one of the many head coaching jobs he's been offered, Eddie would be more recognized in the college basketball world. He will be a great college head coach."

Actually, Fogler's reputation has grown anyway. He has already received two head coaching offers from major universities. However, he says he's perfectly happy in Chapel Hill.

"Of course, I think about being a head coach," he says, "but that is in the future. Right now, I couldn't find a better place to work than here."

Fogler is one of the most popular members of the Carolina athletic staff. He enjoys all sports. Eddie is a bachelor.

Roy Williams

Roy Williams is beginning his second year as a part-time assistant on the North Carolina coaching staff.

Williams will coach the junior varsity and assist in recruiting. He did an excellent job in those areas last year. In fact, he had an opportunity to take a top assistant's job at a major college last spring, but turned it down to remain at Carolina.

A native of Asheville, N.C., Williams played basketball and baseball at T.C. Roberson High. He then played freshman basetball at Carolina in 1968-69. He is a 1972 Tar Heel graduate and also got his master's here.

Prior to coming back to Chapel Hill last season, Williams had spent five years as athletic director and head basketball coach at Owen High School in Asheville.

"Roy is a highly organized person who has all the characteristics of a great coach," says Dean Smith. "He genuinely cares a great deal for each of his players."

Roy and his wife, Wanda, have a son, Scott, and a baby daughter, Kimberly.

Rick Duckett

The newest member of the Carolina coaching staff is Rick Duckett, who will serve as a graduate assistant this year while working on his master's.

A 1979 Carolina graduate, Duckett was a student manager here for the last four years. He is a good athlete who could have played at many schools. However, he chose to be a manager at Carolina so he could learn more about the coaching profession.

Duckett's primary job this season will involve working with the junior varsity.

Rick attended R.J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem, N.C. He has coached youth baseball teams for several summers and coached the junior varsity team at Northern Durham High School last spring.

Carmichael Auditorium

The home of the North Carolina Tar Heels is beautiful Carmichael Auditorium, or "Blue Heaven" as it is known by Carolina fans.

It is not exactly a heaven for visiting teams, however, as few of them win in Chapel Hill. In fact, the Tar Heel record at home stands at 116-13 since the arena opened in 1965.

Carmichael is always packed with overflow crowds of partisan, enthusiastic Tar Heel fans. Every home game is sold out before the season begins. The only way a non-student can get a ticket to Carmichael is to be a large contributor to the Educational Foundation. Even preseason scrimmages and exhibition games are sellouts.

Carmichael is located in the tall pine trees at the heart of the Carolina campus. It is considered one of the most beautiful basketball arenas in the country.

The auditorium has been the home of nine Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship teams, seven ACC Tournament winners, five Eastern Regional champions and one National Invitation Tournament champion.

Students wait in long lines for a chance to see a game in Carmichael. In fact, they often sleep outside the auditorium the night before tickets are distributed for games.

Several hundred seats were added to Carmichael after the 1975-76 season, pushing capacity to 10,000.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director Bill Cobey and Basketball Coach Dean Smith have their offices there. The halls are lined with sketches of Carolina's most outstanding athletes and there are five trophy cases containing awards and pictures from all sports.

The auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael, Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He left a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with Carolina.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later vice-president of the Consolidated University. He also served for a long time as the Consolidated University's acting president. He died in 1961.

The auditorium adjoins Woollen Gymnasium, long-time site of varsity competition and now the center of Carolina's physical education and intramural activities.

The University

Nestled in the rolling foothills of piedmont North Carolina is Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina.

The late artist William Meade Prince once described the town and University as "The Southern Part of Heaven." It is a tag richly deserved.

Like many things in this small, yet cosmopolitan village of 35,000 people, the magic, romance and beauty that fascinated Prince remain unchanged today.

In fact, Time Magazine has called Chapel Hill, "One of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States." It is a town without pretense, one in which the fellow wearing the $150 suit may run a small cafe, while his conversational partner looking worn and tattered, may well be a successful novelist.

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation having been provided for in the Constitution of 1776, chartered in 1789, the site selected in 1793 and opening its doors to students in 1795 while George Washington was president. The University enjoyed a glorious early history and by the start of the War Between the States ranked only behind Yale in enrollment among American colleges.

The University was one of the few southern colleges to stay open during the War but Reconstruction took its toll and the University was forced to shut down for the only time in its history. In the last decades of the 19th century and in the 20th century, however, Carolina has recovered from its adversity and made the progress that has lifted it to the top of American education.

Currently, there are 14 colleges and schools and more than 70 departments and other academically-affiliated divisions, institutes and centers at the University.

Strong in the humanities as well as the social and natural sciences, the University has one of the nation's leading journalism schools and a business administration school of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the South.

Carolina is also one of only six universities in the country with a full range of health professional schools on the same campus. UNC's School of Dentistry is one of the nation's best and the Schools of Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing and Public Health are also well-regarded. North Carolina Memorial Hospital on campus is the University's teaching and research hospital and is a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in North Carolina's 100 counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

In addition, the University boasts a law school with a national reputation and strong schools in education, library science and social work, as well as the outstanding undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences.

The key to Carolina's national prestige, however, is probably its excellent graduate school. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. That made Carolina the leader of all universities in the Southeast.

Alan Carter of the ACE described the University as "the leading Southern university."

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study in Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with today's changing world. Growth has been especially trendmendous in the last 25 years. That era has seen the founding of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV public television station, the Ackland Memorial Art Center and a new computer system.

In the same time, building has increased as there are now close to 300 major structures on the Carolina campus. Student enrollment has mushroomed to 20,400. The faculty has grown to nearly 1,800 members. New courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised. Adult education courses have been expanded. Scholarship and development programs have grown. And, Carolina now offers academic majors in some 200 different areas.

Here are some other facts of interest about one of America's great academic institutions:

• Carolina's Morehead Planetarium, the first ever built on a college campus, is one of the most sophisticated in the world. Since 1960, American astronauts in the Mercury, Gemini, Apollo-Skylab and Apollo-Soyuz programs have been trained in celestial navigation at the Planetarium. It is equipped with the world's most advanced planetarium instrument, the Zeiss Model VI projector — one of five in existence in the world. The Morehead Building also includes a 35-foot walk-in model Copernican Orrey, one of two in the world. It demonstrates how planets revolve around the sun while rotating on their axes and the moons revolve around the planets.

• The Walnut Rotunda of the Planetarium contains a distinguished collection of 17th and 18th century paintings, including works by Rembrandt, Anthony Van Dyck, Thomas Gainsborough, Henry Raeburn, Rembrandt Peale and others.

• Thirty-one of North Carolina's 64 governors have been graduates of UNC, including current governor Jim Hunt who earned a degree from Carolina's law school.

• James Knox Polk, the only American president to graduate first in his college class, was an 1818 alumnus of UNC and the 11th president of the United States.

• The William Hayes Ackland Memorial Art Center contains European and American art objects dating from 3,000 B.C. through the major periods of Western art, and is especially rich in French 19th Century paintings.

• The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for city, county and state officials and employees. It is also involved in research and consultations for state and local governments.

• The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina's public schools.

• The W. C. Coker Arboretum is a five-acre naturalistic garden on the east edge of the historic campus, containing 400 varieties of ornamental plants and shrubs.

• The libraries consist of the Louis Round Wilson Library, a research library in the humanities and social sciences; the Robert B. House Undergraduate Library; and more than a dozen school and departmental collections which total nearly three million volumes.

• The Music Library in Hill Hall is the largest of its kind in the South with over 60,000 volumes of books and scores and more than 10,000 recordings.

• The North Carolina Research Laboratories of Anthropology are a repository for more than two million artifacts, most of them uncovered by the museum's own excavations, and are considered to be one of the primary sources for archaeological research in the South.

• Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, political science, psychology, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings have been constructed.

In direct contrast on north campus are Gerard Hall, built in 1837; the South Building, built in the period from 1798 to 1814; and Old East, the oldest building on a state university campus in America. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dormitory was officially recognized as a national historical landmark in 1966. The 1793 date is considered by University founders to be the official birthdate of the University.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus include the Old Well, the Carolina Inn, the Davie Poplar, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

Despite the changes and growth, the basic beauty of this area remains the same.

A visitor to Chapel Hill can't help but notice thousands of cars plastered with bumper stickers praising Carolina and this beautiful village. The prestige of the University and the natural beauty and pleasant environment of the community lend credence to those stickers' message, "I'd Rather Be in Chapel Hill."

The late Jake Wade wrote this piece a good many years ago. Even today, it captures the spirit of this Town as well as anything we know. Mr. Wade was director of sports publicity at the University at the time of his death.

A Town Touched by Strange Magic

This is a town touched by strange magic and one to which its peoples, many of them a curious breed, hold a rare and somewhat inexplicable attachment. Our town has no rivers, no mountains, no seas, but in the spring it is beautiful and in all seasons it is both wonderful and sad, romantic in the spirit of the youth it harbors in the educational process of the great State University, which is the town's principal industry.

Chapel Hill, where bells wake you in the morning, regardless of whether you live in the Beta house, Cobb dormitory or on Laurel Hill Road, and where the bells keep ringing periodically the day long, with the chimes taking over in the majesty of twilight and on certain important occassions such as the big football games.

Not, really, a village any more, although its inhabitants, some living in the past, like to consider it as such. . . None of us will go so far as to say that it possesses the tranquillity and serenity of the Twenties, when Thomas Wolfe, and Paul Green and LeGette Blythe and "Monk" McDonald and the Carmichaels found adventure, melancholy and beauty in their diverse pursuits on the old campus and the unexplored lands beyond. . . It is not as small, and not quite as nice, but almost, and there is a whole new world of knowledge to be discovered here with resources of mind and matter in abundance.

Chapel Hill, where the civic clubs do not sing, salute flags or wear badges, but unostentatiously and quietly engage in humanitarian projects as earnestly as their backslapping counterparts of the cities . . . Where its only commercial radio station taboos hillbilly tunes and plays sweet music and deathless great arias.

In Chapel Hill that man in dungarees, coming out of the post office, is just as apt to be a best-selling novelist as the town's leading plumber or the divorced author of profound treatises on the science of nuptial compatibility . . . Where shoe shines, on the most modest leather, cost you twenty cents per copy, with the same treatment from five to ten cents cheaper in a much larger town across the way, but there you are not waited on by one of the town's most popular citizens who contributes philosophy, sound sense and remarkably accurate football prognostications as a dividend to the dab of mundane polish.

People in our town go to church, pray, are kind and considerate, both the students and the townspeople, as in all towns . . . But where some of the ministers never wear hats, do wear sweaters, and sometimes drive the more modest editions of those little foreign make sports cars, but their democracy in manners is no compromise with the dignity of their souls, for our town is blessed with able and Godly preachers.

Chapel Hillians, like the folks in your town or city, play poker and bridge but, strangely, little or no gin rummy, and they play golf and handball . . .Chapel Hill, where the tiniest tots are able swimmers, and old men play an exciting brand of tennis. . . Where there are circles and cliques, as in all towns, for the socials, round tables and sports, but where those who travel together are frequently of oddly dissimilar tastes . . . A famous singer breaks bread often and attends games with a Kenan professor . . . A coach has tea regularly with a brilliant author . . . A university department head finds more wisdom, truth and beauty in the philosophy of a bistro keeper than in the ivory towers of his own intellectual level and perfers his company . . . But Chapel Hill is a town of neighbors who are bird watchers and who tend their flowers with loving care and talk over stone walls and drink their coffee or cocktails while talking oftenest abour their children and grandchildren . . . That's Chapel Hill. God bless our town and its gentle way of life.

Carolina's Greatest Players

Out of the exciting past of Carolina basketball have come some of the greatest names the game has ever known—from Cartwright Carmichael and Jack Cobb of the Roaring Twenties to Walter Davis and Phil Ford of the Sizzling Seventies.

There have been scores of all-conference players, numerous All-Americas and four National Players of the Year. Many Tar Heel players have gone on to become superstars in professional basketball, as well.

All of this started back in 1911 when Carolina fielded its first team. Marvin Ritch captained that squad, but history does not tell us how great a player he was.

However, history does tell us a lot about some members of Carolina's first great team—the 1924 national champions. The Tar Heels were 26-0 that year and were led by Carmichael, Cobb and. Monk McDonald.

While the style of play has changed drastically since then, these men are still recognized as three of Carolina's greatest stars. Cobb, in fact, is a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame. He was a three-time All-America and the Helms National Player of the Year in 1926. Carmichael was twice named All-America and McDonald was an all-conference performer.

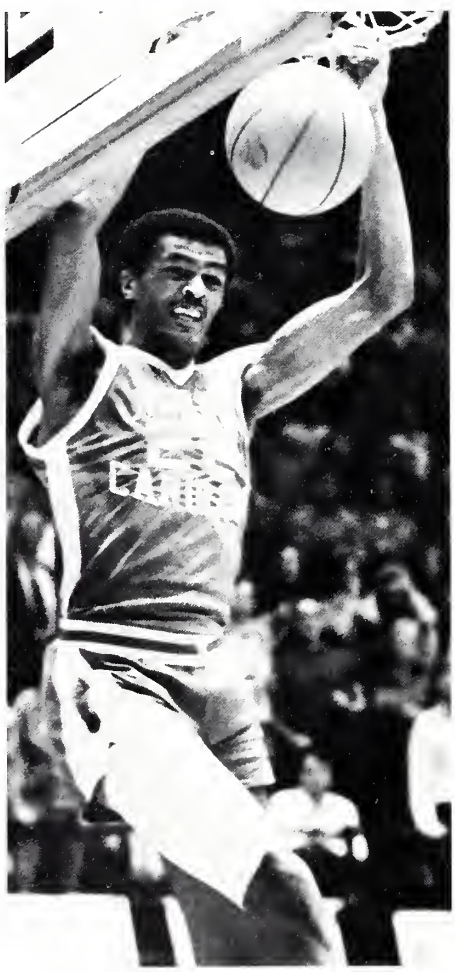
Although the Tar Heels did not have an All-America like Cobb or Carmichael in the 1930's, there were many outstanding players. Ivan (Jack) Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers, Tom Alexander, Jim McCachren and Stewart (Snooks) Aitken made the All-Southern Conference team during that decade.

The big star of the early 1940's was George Glamack—"the Blind Bomber." Glamack had terrible eyesight and could barely see the basket while standing right under it. However, he developed the uncanny sense of knowing where the hoop was in relation to his position on the court. He perfected a hook shot which he used with either hand and with great accuracy. He was a two-time All-America and Helms Player of the Year in 1941. He's now in the Hall of Fame.

All-America John (Hook) Dillon was the star of the 1946 team which lost to Oklahoma A&M and big Bob Kurland in the national finals. Dillon, however, had an excellent supporting cast in Jim Jordan, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton. Jordan, in fact, had been an All-America in 1945 and the Most Valuable Player in the Southern Conference.

Eleven years later the Tar Heels again reached the national finals. This time they won the NCAA title, defeating Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in a triple-overtime thriller that rates among the greatest college games ever.

Lennie Rosenbluth was the star of that team. He was named National Plyer of the Year as Carolina went 32-0. Other starters on that unforgettable team were Pete Brennan (an All-America the following season), Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham.



Dudley Bradley

Walter Davis

Phil Ford

The stars were many during the 1960's. Big Lee Shaffer was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1960. Shaffer was a great scorer and later was an all-star performer in the National Basketball Association with the Syracuse Nationals.

York Larese and Doug Moe also starred for the Tar Heels in the early part of the decade. Larese ranks as one of the greatest free throw shooters in Carolina history. Moe was a sensational all-around star and now coaches the San Antonio Spurs.

A teammate of Moe's was Larry Brown, a dimunitive guard who rates as one of Carolina's finest playmakers. Brown, now the head coach at UCLA, played on the 1964 U.S. Olympic team which swept the Gold Medal.

Billy Cunningham, a three-time All-ACC selection, was the next star on the Carolina scene. He made All-America in 1965. The "Kangaroo Kid" went on to become a great professional star with the Philadelphia 76ers and now coaches that team.

Bob Lewis, a thin sharpshooter from Washington, D.C., followed Cunningham into the Tar Heel spotlight. He holds the Carolina single-game scoring record with 49 points against Florida State.

Next came Larry Miller, an All-America in 1968 when he led his team to the national finals where the Tar Heels lost to Lew Alcindor and UCLA. Miller twice was named the ACC Player of the Year. At 6-4 and 215 pounds, he was a rugged performer who dazzled crowds with driving layups and a great variety of shots.

Bill Bunting, Rusty Clark and Dick Grubar were starters on Carolina teams which won three straight ACC regular-season and tournament championships, swept three Eastern Regionals in a row and went to the final four in the nation.

Bunting had a great senior season and made All-ACC. Grubar was one of the most popular athletes to wear Carolina Blue and was a sparkling playmaker and defender. Clark was a tough defensive player and a great rebounder.

Then there was Charlie Scott, who excelled in every phase of the game. He made All-America in his senior season and was voted ACC Athlete of the Year. In 1968 he starred for the United States in the Olympic Games.

Three fine frontcourt players—Bill Chamberlain, Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo—sparked Carolina teams in the early 1970's. Chamberlain was the Most Valuable Player in the 1971 National Invitation Tournament as the Tar Heels swept that title. Wuycik was a fine shooter and an aggressive rebounder. McAdoo had a great shooting touch and was an excellent rebounder. They led the Tar Heels to the NCAA's Final Four in 1972.

Another All-ACC performer in that period was George Karl, a three-year starter and a highly popular player. He amazed fans with his daring and diving on the court.

One of the most complete players to play the college game was Bobby Jones. Jones had great quickness and was a superb defender. He's one of the NBA's biggest stars.

Another great all-around player was Mitch Kupchak, the 1976 ACC Player of the Year. Mitch led the Tar Heels to a 25-4 record in his senior season and played a key role in the Washington Bullets' NBA championship in 1978.

Then came Walter Davis, John Kuester and Tommy LaGarde. They played on Carolina teams which won 98 games and lost only 23. All three were excellent defensive players and good shooters.

Davis, in fact, is regarded as one of the greatest clutch players in Tar Heel history. He was the NBA Rookie of the Year two seasons ago and an all-pro last winter. Kuester was the Most Valuable Player in both the ACC Tournament and Eastern Regionals as a senior. LaGarde was an All-America on the team selected by the pro coaches.

And, of course, there was Phil Ford, who just may have been the greatest of them all. He was National Player of the Year as a senior and is the all-time Carolina leader in both scoring and assists. He has been called the best guard ever to play the college game. Phil was the NBA's Rookie of the Year last season.

The most recent superstar was Dudley Bradley, the ACC Tournament's MVP last year. He is one of the finest defensive players ever at Carolina or anywhere else for that matter. He was a first-round NBA draft selection last spring.

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation.

It is the Educational Foundation which makes possible all athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina.

As the Tar Heel sports program has grown through the years, the Foundation has done likewise. It is the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members which allows Carolina to field its excellent athletic teams.

"Interest reaches a new peak every year," says Ernie Williamson, the Foundation's executive vice-president. "There are many reasons for this, but the most important has been our great success in all sports the last few years."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 3,600 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $900,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,500 student-athletes," says Williamson. "The majority of these athletes are anxious to return contributions which would enable us to award scholarships to others."

Williamson always has contended that a donation to the Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says the high caliber young athlete who is awarded a scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young student obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and has been quite successful.

"We have life members of $10,000 and $25,000, endowed scholarships of $50,000 and have just recently enlisted 100 members who have purchased $50,000 scholarships through life insurance," says Williamson. "Several members also have indicated they have included the Foundation in their wills and bequests to enable continued success in the future."

A special room on the south wing of Kenan Fieldhouse serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic facilities for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," points out Williamson. "Many of our finest members did not attend Carolina, however. They simply heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

The Foundation was organized in December of 1938. Three loyal and athletic-minded Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure in Raleigh to formulize the plans.

The men were John Umstead, Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Departmemt as a charitable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

The purpose of the Foundation is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability. However, money can also be used for capital improvements.

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessings and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is popular and capable Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

The former star Carolina tackle is one of the most active individuals on the Tar Heel sports scene. He is constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va., played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to professional football and played with New York and Washington before a knee injury ended his career.

Williamson returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He returned to Carolina in 1957 to accept his present position. At one time he also served as a recruiter for the football program.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, and a daughter, Carole.
